EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Often, the term “retreat” is overstated in real estate. High Mountain Camp, however, is the real thing—totally secluded, private, and self-contained. It sits at the end of the road, on top of a mountain, flanked by 200,000± acres of national forest. This thoughtfully designed compound features three well-appointed cabins, off-the-grid capabilities, an 800-foot grass runway, helipad, hangar, and numerous outbuildings. The scenery is unrivalled, and 360-degree views showcase some of the highest peaks in Virginia.

Despite its seclusion, High Mountain Camp remains remarkably accessible and is located less than 2.5 hours from Roanoke, Winston-Salem, and Charlotte. This easy access adds to its usability and year-round appeal, particularly in the summer, when the cooling breezes and 4,000-foot elevation offer an unbeatable respite from the southeastern heat and humidity.

Multiple dwellings, endless recreation, and well-developed infrastructure make High Mountain Camp a truly unique Blue Ridge Mountain offering and an ideal family compound. The property is offered turnkey with all furnishings and equipment, making it ready for enjoyment on the first day of ownership.

LOCATION

High Mountain Camp is in southwest Virginia, 45 minutes from Wytheville, which is the nearest large town. The property's location is one of its defining features, it is remote but accessible. When at the property, it feels a world away from everyday life, yet Charlotte, one of the Southeast's most dynamic business centers, can be reached in just two hours and fifteen minutes by car. Independence is the nearest town and is only 14 miles to the southeast. Distances to regional cities are:

Winston-Salem, NC	1 hour 45 minutes
Roanoke, VA	2 hours
Greensboro, NC.....	2 hours 10 minutes
Charlotte, NC.....	2 hours 20 minutes
Raleigh, NC.....	3 hours 20 minutes
Washington, D.C.	5 hours

LOCALE

This part of Virginia is renowned for its rugged scenery and rural character. The Blue Ridge Mountains create a stunning backdrop, and the mountains here routinely top 4,000 feet, making them some of the highest in Virginia. The Jefferson National Forest and Mount Rogers National Recreation Area border the property, and the sprawling 690,000-acre complex of protected lands can be immediately accessed out of High Mountain Camp's back door.

The surrounding area is home to trout-filled creeks and endless trails for mountain biking, hiking, and horseback riding. The Mount Rogers National Recreation Area is a regional treasure and includes Virginia's highest peak (Mount Rogers, elevation 5,729 feet), 500± miles of trails, and four designated wilderness areas. The Appalachian Trail, the Virginia Creeper National Recreation Trail, and the Johns Mountain Trail all traverse the areas near High Mountain Camp.

In recent years, southwest Virginia has become rightfully recognized for its outstanding outdoor recreation and year-round activities, which include hiking, mountain biking, horseback riding, fishing, paddling, and cross-country skiing.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION

High Mountain Camp runs the length of Bald Rock Ridge, and the mountaintop property has an average elevation of 4,000 feet. The private, well-maintained driveway enters the property through a pair of discreet stone pillars and quickly gains elevation as it weaves through a towering hardwood forest and thick understory of native rhododendron and mountain laurel.

At the top of the driveway, you are greeted by the South Cabin, which is off-the-grid with redundant systems to ensure total energy independence and security. The thoughtfully appointed two-bedroom cabin features a modern kitchen and wraparound porch that overlooks a three-quarter-acre, stocked pond. To the north of the South Cabin are the Middle and North Cabins, which together offer an additional seven bedrooms. All three of the cabins offer sweeping vistas of the surrounding mountains and valleys below.

At the southern end of the property is the equipment shop and aviation facility. High Mountain Camp is a backcountry pilot's dream, and adjacent to the 3,000± square foot hangar is a 3,400± square foot helipad and an 800-foot grass landing strip, created with STOL aircraft in mind. The aviation components vastly increase the property's accessibility, and the current owner is able to reach High Mountain Camp from the Charlotte metro area in under 45 minutes via helicopter.

Because of its location and elevation, High Mountain Camp has uninterrupted 360-degree views. Two observation decks sit on the western edge of the ridge overlooking Robert's Cove, and Virginia's highest mountain, Mount Rogers (5,729 feet), is visible in the distance. The property's northern boundary is shared with the Jefferson National Forest, bringing endless recreation right to High Mountain Camp's doorstep.

ACREAGE

The property is primarily hardwood forest, with approximately 40 open acres in the center of the property along the top of the ridge. Within the open acreage, adjacent to the South Cabin and pond, are two fenced paddocks that total around five acres. The runway and helipad are sited at the southern end of the property.

IMPROVEMENTS

SOUTH CABIN

The South Cabin is a traditional, 1,200± square foot Appalachian-style cabin that has been thoughtfully positioned to take advantage of the views to the east, the pond, and the wide valley below. It has one main bedroom and a sleeping loft, as well as a comfortable living room, well-appointed kitchen, and wraparound porch. Adjacent to the cabin is a 1,350± square foot garage with three bays. The cabin is fully off-the-grid, with redundant systems, including:

- Solar panel array (10-KW)
- Bergey wind-driven power generator (10-KW)
- Full battery storage with components to store and distribute power
- Backup propane generator (20-KW) with large capacity tank
- Wood-fired furnace

MIDDLE CABIN

The Middle Cabin sits on the brow of Bald Rock Ridge and takes advantage of the views to both the east and west. It has four bedrooms, two full bathrooms, and an attached two-car garage. It also has a propane backup generator with a large capacity tank.

NORTH CABIN

The North Cabin is the largest of the cabins and measures 2,600± square feet. It has four bedrooms, two-and-a-half bathrooms, a large equipment garage, and an adjacent storage barn. It also has a propane backup generator with a large capacity tank.

HANGAR

The 3,000± square foot hangar is located south of the cabins. It is in immaculate condition and features an automated overhead hangar door that opens onto the helipad.

EQUIPMENT SHOP

The equipment shop has 1,275± square feet of conditioned storage and workshop space and includes a full bathroom. All equipment and tools on the farm will convey with the property.

CLIMATE

High Mountain Camp enjoys a true four-season climate. Summertime temperatures are in the 70s and low 80s, and the high elevation means there are consistent, pleasant breezes and minimal humidity – a welcome respite from the typical Southeastern summer. The spring and fall seasons feature high temperatures that range from the 50s to the low 70s, while winters at High Mountain Camp can be cold and snowy, with average high temperatures in the 30s and low 40s. Average precipitation in the area is 41 inches per year. Average snowfall in the area is 17 inches per year, although snowfall at High Mountain Camp is frequently much higher due to its elevation.

RECREATIONAL CONSIDERATIONS

Recreation and enjoyment of the outdoors are at the heart of High Mountain Camp. On-site, there is a pond stocked with bass and trout and a thorough road and trail system. For those looking to explore further afield, the property has direct access to the Jefferson National Forest, making it an ideal launching point to explore thousands upon thousands of acres of protected lands.

Hunting is not currently a focus on the property, but there are strong populations of whitetail deer and eastern wild turkey. Additional wildlife includes black bears, bobcats, and a wide variety of bird species. All benefit from the surrounding rural lands and the national forest.

For the recreational or backcountry pilot, it doesn't get much better than High Mountain Camp. Few properties offer the ability to wake up, walk to the hangar, and take flight. Even fewer offer such a spectacular backdrop.

TAXES

Annual property taxes were approximately $12,877 in 2022.

BROKER'S COMMENTS

High Mountain Camp is a true mountain retreat and the only one of its type currently on the market in the Blue Ridge Mountains. Its privacy, self-sufficiency, recreation, and scenery are unmatched, rivaled only by the convenience to some of North Carolina's largest metro areas.

VIRGINIA DISCLOSURE OF BROKERAGE RELATIONSHIP EXPLANATION TO CONSUMERS

Upon having a substantive discussion about a specific property or properties with an actual or prospective buyer or seller who is not the client of the licensee and who is not represented by another licensee, a licensee shall disclose any broker relationship the licensee has with another party to the transaction. Further, except as provided in Virginia Code § 54.1-2139, 54.1-2139.1, 54.1-2139.2, or 54.1-2139.3, such disclosure shall be made in writing at the earliest practical time, but in no event later than the time when specific real estate assistance is first provided. Such disclosure may be given in combination with other disclosures or provided with other information, but if so, the disclosure must be conspicuous, printed in bold lettering, all capitals, underlined, or within a separate box. Real estate licensees in Virginia are required by law to make prompt written disclosure of any brokerage relationship to members of the public who are unrepresented. Licensees must also make written disclosures and obtain timely written consents from their clients before entering into other brokerage relationships. If a licensee's relationship to a client or customer changes, the licensee shall disclose that fact in writing to all clients and customers already involved in the specific contemplated transaction. Copies of any disclosures relative to fully executed purchase contracts shall be kept by the licensee for a period of three years as proof of having made such disclosure, whether or not such disclosure is acknowledged in writing by the party to whom such disclosure was shown or given.

Definitions:

"Brokerage relationship" means the contractual relationship between a client and a real estate licensee who has been engaged by such client for the purpose of procuring a seller, buyer, option, tenant, or landlord ready, able, and willing to sell, buy, option, exchange or rent real estate on behalf of a client.

"Client" means a person who has entered into a brokerage relationship with a licensee.

"Customer" means a person who has not entered into a brokerage relationship with a licensee but for whom a licensee performs ministerial acts in a real estate transaction. Unless a licensee enters into a brokerage relationship with such person, it shall be presumed that such person is a customer of the licensee rather than a client.

"Ministerial acts" means those routine acts, which a licensee can perform for a person, which do not involve discretion or the exercise of the licensee's own judgment.

Forms of Client Representation:

"Standard agent" means a licensee who acts for or represents a client in an agency relationship. A standard agent shall have certain obligations to his client and any additional obligations agreed to by the parties in the brokerage agreement. A standard agent must disclose his client relationship whenever dealing with an unrepresented party. A standard agent is also allowed to assist an unrepresented party with ministerial duties.

"Limited-service agent" performs limited services, which include only those services requested by the client. In effect, it's taking the list of everything a Standard agent does and subtracting duties that the client isn't interested in. It requires a written brokerage agreement that meets the following criteria: (1) It discloses that the licensee is acting as a limited services representative; (2) It provides a list of the specific services that the licensee will provide to the client; (3) It provides a list of the specific statutory duties of a standard agent that the limited-services representative will not provide the client; (4) It includes this language (or its equivalent): By entering into this brokerage agreement, the undersigned do hereby acknowledge their informed consent to the limited service representation by the licensee and do further acknowledge that neither the other party to the transaction nor any real estate licensee representing the other party is under any legal obligation to assist the undersigned with the performance of any duties and responsibilities of the undersigned not performed by the limited service representative.

"Independent contractor" (also known as non-agent) is created by a written brokerage agreement that specifically states that the real estate licensee is acting as an independent contractor and not as an agent. The agreement must also state the obligations an independent contractor has, and which have been agreed to by the parties. An independent contractor relationship is entered into when a licensee is acting as either a designated agent or a dual agent. A “designated agency” is when a principal or supervising broker assigns different licensees within the firm to represent exclusively the seller and buyer. A “dual agent” is a licensee who has a brokerage relationship with both seller and buyer in the same real estate transaction. Dual agency comes with significant limitations to the services a licensee is legally allowed to provide either client. Licensees must provide clients with new, specific language that clearly explains these limitations. These limitations are called “enhanced disclosures.” For example, dual agents are prohibited from advising either party as to the merits of specific terms, offers, or counteroffers; dual agents can’t advise a buyer client about the suitability of the property or its condition (except the disclosures required by law for seller representatives); and dual agents can’t advise either party in any dispute that might later arise relating to the transaction. In dual agency both clients receive a reduced service level.
